

Anthropology Major

(11 units)

- 1) Eleven departmental units (at least 6 of which must be taken on campus):
 - a) The three foundational introductory courses (100, 110, and 120), which should be completed by the end of the sophomore year;
 - b) Two specific intermediate courses: Anthropology 200 and 201;
 - c) Two additional courses from the essentials category (200-250);
 - d) Three elective anthropology courses chosen in consultation with the advisor, one of which must be from the 300 level;
 - e) Anthropology 380 (Senior Capstone)

Note: Participation in fieldwork courses, overseas experience, and foreign language are strongly recommended but not required.*

- 2) Supporting courses: No single set of courses is relevant to every anthropology major; however, students with specialized interests in certain areas within anthropology may be advised to complete relevant courses in the humanities, natural sciences, and/or other social sciences. Courses in statistics, competence in a field-relevant language, and proficiency in word-processing and computer-based data analysis are urged. Interdisciplinary minors in museum studies and area studies are especially relevant to a major in anthropology. Students interested in graduate work in anthropology should pay special attention to these recommendations as well as complete an honors thesis in their senior year.

- 3) Writing/communication requirement:

Communication within the discipline of anthropology occurs through writing, photography and filmmaking, oral reports, multimedia productions, and the creation of posters that convey information. Anthropological writing includes a wide variety of styles and genres, including expository essays, laboratory reports, research results, ethnographic note-taking, cultural description, and creative fiction. A certain amount of reflexivity is expected in all anthropological writing; that is, the writer must communicate to the reader an awareness of the ways in which writing itself constructs and conveys the message or information. Writing of various sorts is built into the anthropology major. Foundational courses (100, 110, 120) introduce students to the diversity among anthropological subfields and the writing styles that accompany each. Anthropology 100 requires essay writing, and students learn the style of laboratory reports in 120. Each component of the intermediate and foundational courses requires students to write in a style appropriate to the discipline and incorporate theoretical analysis. The elective courses require students to think, analyze, synthesize, and present their results in writing. A number of courses also require that students present the results of their work orally. Students who intend to go to graduate school are strongly encouraged to complete an honors thesis.
