ARABIC, RUSSIAN, & EAST ASIAN LANGUAGES SCHOLARSHIPS

FOR INCOMING & CURRENT BELOIT COLLEGE STUDENTS

The Arabic, Russian, & East Asian (AREA) Languages Scholarships are competitive scholarships for students interested in studying Arabic, Russian, Chinese, or Japanese in summer 2015 through Beloit College’s Center for Language Studies (CLS), a nationally recognized intensive language program.

By allowing you to accelerate your study of these critical languages, the AREA Scholarship (up to a $3,100 value) will help you achieve higher levels of proficiency more quickly and, as a result, provide you with the chance to pursue more meaningful study, both on campus and abroad, in the areas of Asian, Arabic, & Russian Studies.

We hope students will take advantage of this great opportunity to study these critical need languages. The summer 2015 eight-week session runs from June 13 to August 7. Students completing the program will receive three units of Beloit College credit. Grades earned will appear on the Beloit College transcript and will be included in the student's overall GPA.

Beloit College students may apply directly for the AREA Scholarship through the CLS online application at www.beloit.edu/cls.

As the tables to the right suggest, CLS is not only an opportunity to complete a year’s worth of study in one semester, it may also be very cost efficient!

The preferred deadline for applications is April 24, 2015. Scholarship announcements are made on a rolling basis. Students with a GPA of 3.25 or higher, or a strong language background, who complete their applications to CLS by April 1, will receive priority consideration for the AREA Scholarship.

Please contact Dan Perusich, Director of Summer Programs, at 608.363.2373 or cls@beloit.edu for more information. The Center for Language Studies is located on the second floor of the Writing Center.
