No shipments will be received. Works on paper and photography must be framed under plastic or glass. Hanging devices such as "braquettes" are not acceptable. Slides of accepted works will be retained. The Wright Museum of Art is proud to display works of art accepted by the jurors, but because of the delicacy and/or frailty of some works, complete coverage may not be available. If a work has been industrially fabricated and is damaged, and it can be repaired or replaced to the artist's specifications, the museum's liability will be limited to the cost of repair or replacement. We suggest that artists either self-insure or maintain their own insurance on such works. All works must be picked up at the Wright Museum of Art before April 1 at 4 p.m. or pay a $5 (per day, per work) storage fee. Works not picked up after April 5th become the property of Beloit College. Submission of work to the exhibition constitutes acceptance of terms of the prospectus.
