Residence hall life is an exciting and educational aspect of your "living education" at Beloit. You will meet students from different areas of the nation and various countries, many with widely differing views and values. Life in the residence halls is based on mutual respect for the rights, opinions, feelings, and beliefs of others. Through residence hall programs and college activities, we expect you will learn about new ideas and interests, challenge your current thinking, and reaffirm or change your values.

We are committed to providing programs and services which help students develop the interpersonal skills, and enhance their participant and leadership skills, and learn to appreciate the variety of thoughts, cultures and lifestyles present on campus.

Beloit College offers a variety of residence hall options to meet student needs. The residence halls and houses provide an environment conducive to academic and personal growth.

Each residence hall or house is staffed with one or more Resident Assistants (RAs). They act as peer counselors and help promote academic, recreational, and social programming. They are hired to provide support and facilitate the "living education" aspect of Beloit. RAs are outstanding students who are carefully selected by members of the Residential Life staff. At least five full-time staff live on campus in the residence halls.

This pamphlet tells you about the living options at Beloit College, and describes the programs and services that are available to help you get the most out of your college experience.

Choosing your residence hall room

Please review the available buildings and decide which style will best meet your needs. Please indicate a preference of hall or a specific building on the housing assignment form. If you have special requests or need more information, please contact the Office of Residential Life.

Computer Network: Every student room is connected to the campus wired network. Each student computer must have the current updated operating system and antivirus software; a network interface card and an Ethernet cable. Beloit College provides antivirus software free of charge to students upon arrival on campus and sells Ethernet cables to students who need to purchase one.

Room Assignments: Rooms are assigned and spaces are provided to students in the following manner:

• Dining Service: Commons cafeteria, located in Chapin Hall, serves 20 meals a week (excluding Sunday dinner). The Commons food service provides special events and national origins, ancestry, age, sexual orientation, or physical or mental disabilities unrelated to institutional jobs, programs, or activities. Beloit College is a Title IX institution.

Upper-class halls and special-interest houses

The following buildings house primarily sophomores, juniors, and seniors. A few spaces for transfer students may be open. These buildings usually fill up in the history system and thus are not available for new students.

- Wood Hall is near the Sports Center and houses 78 students. Renovated in 1988, the hall is arranged in four vertical tower arrangements, each having a living room/loft on the first floor and student rooms on the second and third floors. A large building lounge, two instructional rooms, and a laundry room are centrally located on the lower level for all to use. Currently Beloit Science Fiction and Fantasy Association (BSFFA), Black Students United (BSU), Sub-Free House, Japan House, and German House occupy Wood Hall.

- Haven Hall is the only hall solely for 53 upper-class students. This hall is designed in suite arrangements where a small group of students share a lounge and kitchen area. These suites may or may not be coed, depending on the desires of the students. Renovated in 1989, this hall has a lounge and instructional room on the lower level.

- Art House, 742 Church St., is a coed house of 16 upperclass students. This hall is designed in suite arrangements where a small group of students share a lounge and kitchen area. These suites may or may not be coed, depending on the desires of the students. Renovated in 1989, this hall has a lounge and instructional room on the lower level.

- Peace and Justice, 905 Church St. is a coed house of four students who support the work of the geology student group.

- The Center is located at 732 Church St. The cooperative center seeks to raise awareness of women’s issues on the campus and also serves as a support group for Beloit College women.

LANGUAGE HOUSES

These language houses are aligned with the modern languages department. Students are selected by faculty and current student house residents. They support the students of their language and serve as a home base for students going on or returning from study abroad programs.

- The French House, 857 College St., is a coed house of 20 students.
